Sagbar for teachers

A student in your class stutters. This sheet shows what often helps in lessons and how Sagbar can help them prepare.

In class

- Let them finish, keep eye contact and do not finish their sentences.
- Agree in advance how presentations, reading aloud and being called on should work. The student has a say.
- Assess content and participation, not fluency, if you have agreed on that.

With Sagbar

- Students can do a short exercise before a presentation. It takes a few minutes.
- The app works without an account and counts nothing. You receive no data and need to set nothing up.
- Whether someone talks about their stuttering is their own decision.

Sagbar is a self-help app. It does not replace speech and language therapy and does not make a diagnosis.
